U. S. Handling Of Lend-Lease Is Criticized

War Surplus Problems Snarling Up, Official Report Asserts

By W. H. MOBLEY

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—A Senate committee complained today of weak American representation abroad which it said was snarling up war surplus problems, lend-lease and other economic dealings.

The committee also suggested the desirability of maintaining permanent American army and navy bases "at some points in the European theater." It demanded prompt recovery of Lend Lease arms from European Allies for use against Japan. It criticized what it called lack of "sensitivity" on the part of procurement agencies at home to changing munitions demands from the front.

Report of Committee

The report was issued by the Senate War Investigating committee on the basis of a report by a subcommittee headed by Senator Kilgore (D-W. Va.). Kilgore's group is just back from a visit to Europe.

The report set up seven specific points in its criticism of this country's foreign representation, and had this to say on the general subject:

"The difficulties recited x x x result from the failure of our government agencies abroad to obtain all the considerations we should have received in return for the huge contributions we have made in this war. Lack of clearly established foreign policy over a very long period of years is a major contributing cause."

The seven specific counts:

1. Disposition of surpluses abroad in a manner not apt to bring the highest return or fill the greatest need. Coordination under a single agency recommended.

2. "American rights to fixed installations which we have erected abroad have not been clearly defined. It is essential that immediate and careful study be given to . . . future disposition x x x."

3. Large quantities of captured goods and munitions not yet inventoried, with no plan for its disposal nor coordination with the Allies, particularly on the possibility of turning it to account against Japan.

4. "As a result of the impending evacuation of our troops in France and their occupation of Germany, the army has shown a disposition to have no further interest in the French economy, while it finds it necessary to strengthen the German transportation and industrial system in order to assure itself of proper supply in Germany. While this is a national attitude on the part of the armed forces, it must be counteracted if we are to avoid a situation where our enemies fare better at our hands than our friends."

5. "The division of Germany into four zones of occupation has resulted up to this time in vesting the control of what has been a highly integrated nation into four wholly uncoordinated elements."

6. Lack of itemized invoices for reverse lend-lease services and goods, preventing reliable accounting.

7. Artificially fixed foreign exchange rates which the committee said have imposed a financial burden on American servicemen and also created problems in settlement of Lend-Lease accounts and disposal of surpluses; also great amounts of Axis currency and other profits in the hands of collaborators who served the enemy, with impounding made more difficult by delay.

Truman Warns Bureau Heads On Spending

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—President Truman officially alerted the administration today against "misuse" of the government's multi-billion dollar funds.

Soldiers Indignant:

Veterans of European War Angry Over Preference Given Italians

SALT LAKE CITY, July 6 (AP)—Cooling showers in a downtown gymnasium and a switch to sleeping cars boosted the spirits of 200 veterans of European air and ground warfare before they headed westward today on the last leg of a tedious crosscountry journey.

But the men still were indignant as they told of seeing Italian service unit members lead aboard sleepers at Kansas City while the American veterans traveled aboard antiquated coaches on the trip from Boston.

They are veterans of the Ninety-fifth infantry division and the Eighth air force. They told reporters here of riding in cars with broken toilets, a shortage of washing facilities and with cardboard rectangles covering broken windows.

"That really was the payoff when we saw those Italians climb on those sleepers," said Pfc. Vernon G. Spidle, purple heart wearer from Montebello, Calif.

In Washington, the War department said that the only Italian service units now being moved are sick and disabled men who are in process of being repatriated.

Chiang Pledges Aid of Chinese Against Enemy

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Saturday, July 7 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, marking the start of China's ninth year of war, declared today "we anticipate an Allied landing on Japan," and pledged that China would bear the main burden of battle against the enemy on the Chinese mainland.

A Chinese army spokesman asserted that China's armies were turning from the defensive to the offensive, and that the enemy was changing from offensive to defensive tactics.

He said the eight years of fighting—beginning July 7, 1937 with the Marco Polo bridge "incident" near Peiping—had cost the Chinese 3,178,063 casualties and the Japanese 2,921,737, including 1,179,774 enemy killed, 1,318,670 wounded, and 23,298 captured.

Chiang in a war anniversary message urged his people to redouble their efforts for final victory, asserting "our first duty is to hasten the enemy's collapse and unconditional surrender."

But he warned, too, that the Japanese would become more desperate as the war approached an end.

The Chinese high command announced recapture of Pingxiang, eleven miles from the Indo China border town of Dong Dang, and said the Japanese "fled toward French Indo China with our troops at their heels." Loss of Pingxiang was announced a week ago by the Chinese.

Meat Rationing In Canada Will Be Resumed

OTTAWA, July 6 (AP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today that rationing of meat in Canada, suspended eighteen months ago, would be resumed "shortly" for the purpose of reducing consumption and making available more supplies for relief in Europe.

The prime minister did not set a specific date for resumption of rationing, but the Prices Board (Canadian OPA) will immediately impose control over all commercial slaughtering.

Donald Gordon, prices board chairman, said Canadians would get about one and one-third pounds per person a week. Meatless days on Tuesdays and Fridays will be enforced in restaurants beginning Friday, July 13.

The prime minister pointed out that previous mild meat rationing, which was abandoned March 1, 1944, had been aimed merely at providing an equitable distribution inside Canada.

"The rationing which is to be imposed shortly," he emphasized, "is designed to effect a reduction in Canadian consumption of meat."

"In consequence, the rationing organization and system which the prices board must now develop present much more difficult problems of establishment and administration. Several weeks must elapse before the machinery can be put into operation and the consumer can begin to use coupons for purchase of meat."

Official disclosure that hard-hitting medium bombers of the Fifth air force have moved up their operating base from Luzon to Okinawa is bad news for Japan.

War Labor Board Directs Return Of N. Y. Strikers

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The War Labor Board, after a unanimous vote, today urgently directed the striking Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union to return to work at once on fourteen New York newspapers.

A telegram was sent to Union President Joseph Simons and Union Attorney Louis Waldman, after receipt of notice from those officials that the union membership had been called into meeting next Sunday to consider the question of ending their six-day strike.

The board sent its wire "in the earnest hope that you and your associates will put aside every other consideration save that of the public interest in time of war."

"The strike of your union is depriving millions of people of news at a time when the events of the world, and particularly overseas news, are of such urgent concern," the telegram said.

"The board cannot, therefore, regard the action thus far taken by the leaders of the union in calling a meeting first for Monday afternoon and then for Sunday afternoon as sufficiently expeditious or forthright to meet the needs of the situation. The delay of your union in terminating this strike has placed in jeopardy rights and benefits accruing to the union and to its members under the board's extension order of June 14, 1945."

Pullman Service For Civilians To Be Curtailed

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Civilian Pullman service will be discontinued July 15 on all trips of 450 miles or less in order to make more cars available to move troops.

The order was drafted by the Office of Defense Transportation after consultations with military and railroad officials.

It was estimated the order would result in the withdrawal of approximately 900 cars now in civilian service.

This will make approximately two-thirds of all Pullman cars available for the exclusive use of the military services. There are about 7,500 Pullmans.

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director, said the unexpected heavy arrival of troops from Europe ahead of schedule made the action necessary at this time.

Predicting that July may be the biggest of all months in the redeployment of troops from Europe to the Pacific, Johnson said that it might be necessary to curtail civilian Pullman service even further.

The shortest rail route between any cities will be used in establishing the 450-mile limit.

The order will rule out Pullman service between such cities as Washington and New York, Chicago and Detroit, Kansas City and St. Louis and Chicago and Chicago and the Twin Cities.

Railroad officials predicted they would be able to put the order into effect by the noon July 15 deadline.

Vinson Will Be Next Secretary Of the Treasury

Truman Will Make Ap- pointment After He Re- turns from Europe

By MAX HALL

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Tall, rugged Fred Moore Vinson of Kentucky, director of war mobilization, will be the next secretary of the treasury.

The White House made the announcement late today, abruptly ending a swirl of speculation over a successor to Henry Morgenthau, Jr., who resigned yesterday.

President Truman had said he had a man in mind for the post but would not name him until he returned from the Big Three conference in Germany several weeks from now.

Appointment Delayed

Apparently Mr. Truman changed his mind and settled the matter today. A White House aide made the announcement, disclosing that the actual appointment will be made on the return from Europe.

That means Morgenthau will continue in the post for the time being, as announced yesterday.

Vinson, fifty-five years old, has had a richness of governmental experience few men ever achieve. He has been an ace in the legislative, judicial, and executive branches of the government, all within the space of a few years.

Now he is director of war mobilization and reconversion. As soon as it became known that he is the man who will take over Morgenthau's job as chief of the nation's financial functions, observers were quick to wonder whether he will take into the treasury with him his present task of "war mobilization."

May Boss Agencies

The White House gave no indication as to this but some thought it was logical for the whole field of taxes, public debt management, and reconversion to be consolidated under the big, shaggy man whose rise from office to office has been so rapid.

For years, as chairman of the tax subcommittee of the House Ways and Means committee, he whipped together tax bills, and led the fight to put them into law.

He served fourteen years in the House, in most cases battling down the line for President Roosevelt's ideas.

In 1938 he was appointed by Roosevelt as an associate justice of the United States Court of Appeals, District of Columbia. He served for five years and then was drafted into the executive branch in the mammoth assignment of holding the line against rising prices that threatened to twist the nation's economy into a spiral of inflation. As director of economic stabilization, Vinson was tough.

Succeeded Byrnes

Early this year, when President Roosevelt ousted Jesse Jones as federal loan administrator and Congress refused to permit Henry Wallace to fill the job, Mr. Roosevelt's next choice was Vinson. Hardly had the Kentuckian started with a study of his new powers when James F. Byrnes resigned as War mobilization director and Vinson was called to succeed him there.

Interesting to those who want to know the shape of taxes to come is the fact that Vinson has been outspoken against any reductions in tax rates until the end of the Japanese war.

Meantime, it was learned that Morgenthau turned in his resignation because he had become weary of frequent rumors that he was about to be replaced. From a person who should know the facts (Continued on Page 7, Col. 3)

Firestone Crews Ordered To End Strike by Monday

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The 17,000 striking members of the CIO Rubber Workers at the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, were directed by the War Labor Board today to end their strike by Monday morning or send representatives to a show-cause hearing Tuesday.

The board said it had been advised that local 7 of the union had refused to comply with the board's July 2 back-to-work order, and therefore issued the ultimatum to return by Monday morning or send responsible officials to a public hearing before the board at 10:30 a. m. July 19, to show cause.

"1. Why the strike has not been terminated.

"2. Why the vacation and shift premium provisions of the National War Labor Board directive order of April 3, 1945, insofar as it applied to the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, and local 7 of the United Rubber Workers of America, CIO should not be suspended."

"NUBBINS" FOOLED 'EM---AND NOW HE'S FOUR

HIS PRIVATE CHRISTMAS last November touched the nation's heart, and gifts poured in from all over the country when news stories explained that "Nubbins" Hoffman had to enjoy his tree then because he couldn't live till the regular day. But "Nubbins" was still around when Santa Claus came, for a miracle of surgery had saved him from seemingly certain death. Today he's a rugged little boy with all of four years behind him and apparently many more ahead. Laughing with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hoffman (above, left) at their home in Cheyenne, Wyo., he shows the proper way to blow out four candles on a birthday cake, and (right) he struts proudly in a birthday suit that is one of his presents.

Unique Act of Mercy: U. S. Navy Permits Jap Hospital Ship To Remove Sick and Wounded

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, July 6 (AP)—In an act of mercy unique in the Pacific war, the United States Navy permitted a Japanese hospital ship to remove 974 sick and wounded Nipponese soldiers and sailors from storied Wake island on Independence day.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who presided over the evacuation, said it was another chapter in the drama which has surrounded Wake, a United States possession, since it fell to the Nipponese Dec. 24, 1941, after a gallant little marine garrison had exacted a high cost from the overwhelming enemy force that attacked it.

Evacuation of such a large number of Japanese from Wake apparently means the island could be re-taken by the Americans at any time, although at present there is no indication this might be attempted.

The enemy vessel, the Takasago Maru, was intercepted by the United States destroyer Murray as it approached Wake and again after it departed. American boarding parties searched the ship each time, with the co-operation of the Japanese commander.

When first stopped and searched, the Japanese commander informed the Murray's skipper, who was not identified by Nimitz, that he was enroute to Wake to evacuate disabled personnel. He was allowed to proceed. That was on Tuesday.

The Takasago Maru was again intercepted the following day, after leaving Wake. Americans, who boarded the vessel found that the bulk of the 974 patients she carried were suffering from malnutrition, stark evidence of the efficiency of the United States sea and air blockade of this and other bypassed islands in the Pacific.

Medics estimated fifteen per cent would not survive the long voyage back to Japan.

Revision of Tax Laws Favored By House Vote

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Legislation revising tax laws to improve the cash position of business by $5,500,000,000 in the reconversion period won speedy House approval 246 to 91 today and was forwarded to the Senate.

The House rejected 120 to 95 an effort to reduce excess profits taxes by $235,000,000 this year through a retroactive increase in the exemption under this levy. The boosted exemption will become effective next January.

Approval of the bill came after turbulent debate, in which opponents shouted that it "cuts a million of millions of dollars for some railroads and 'benefits those who made excess profits out of the war.'"

Proponents argued that the five-point tax revision is needed to hasten reconversion—especially small business—and thereby aid employment. They said it makes very little change in ultimate tax liabilities of corporations.

No change is made in individual or corporate income tax burdens. Specifically the five-point measure provides:

1. Increase in the excess-profits tax specific exemption from $10,000 to $25,000, effective beginning with the 1946 tax year.

Polish Regime In London Acts In Secret

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—The exiled Polish government in London apparently casting itself into the role of an "underground government"—called upon the 250,000 men of the Polish armed forces abroad today to remain loyal and support its claim to speak for the nation.

The action presumably challenged the plan of the major powers to give Poles in the armed forces the choice of returning home to help in Poland's reconstruction, or remaining under the British flag.

Refuse To Surrender

Less than twenty-four hours after Britain and the United States formally recognized the new provisional government of national unity at Warsaw, the exiled regime of Premier Tomasz Arciszewski reaffirmed its determination to refuse to surrender its authority until a new government is formed in free elections "on Free Polish soil."

Then in an order of the day, Lt. Gen. Tadeusz Komorowski (Gen. Bor) commander-in-chief of the Polish armed forces and leader of the Warsaw uprising, told his troops that the proclamations of President Wladyslaw Rackiewicz of the London regime "remain binding" upon them.

The pattern of development indicated the London group intended to preserve at least the skeleton of an organization despite the imminent withdrawal of British financial support except for the pay of the armed forces and to personnel essential for liquidating activities of the exiled group.

Warsaw Group Acts

Meanwhile, the newly-formed Warsaw government initiated action to lay claim to the assets of the London regime. Polpress, organ here of the Warsaw government, said the new government had named a three-member commission "authorized to take over and secure all property of the Polish state in Great Britain."

The move, however, may run into a legal tangle for the exact status of such assets as the Bank of Poland's gold and the merchant marine have never been clarified, at least publicly.

Declare Revision Needed

Proponents argued that the five-point tax revision is needed to hasten reconversion—especially small business—and thereby aid employment. They said it makes very little change in ultimate tax liabilities of corporations.

No change is made in individual or corporate income tax burdens. Specifically the five-point measure provides:

MacArthur Reports Fighter Bomber Attacks on West Coast of Kyushu

By LEIF ERICKSON

MANILA, Saturday, July 7 (AP)—Fighter bombers of the United States Fifth Air Force again have swept over the west coast of Kyushu without meeting any enemy interception. Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

It was the second consecutive day that MacArthur had announced blows against the Japanese homeland by the Fifth air force, newly moved from the Philippines to bases on Okinawa.

Drop 4,000 Tons Of Incendiaries In Major Attack

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

GUAM, Saturday, July 7 (AP)—About 600 Marianas-based Superfortresses struck an important oil refinery near Osaka and four Japanese cities on Honshu early today with nearly 4,000 tons of incendiary and demolition bombs.

Kofu, Chiba and Shimizu, in the Tokyo area, and Shimotsu and Akashi were the cities raided.

It was the first fire bomb attack by B-29s on Kofu, Chiba, Shimizu and Akashi. Both Akashi and Chiba have undergone pinpoint bombing before.

Today's raid may have been made by a record number of the sky giants although nearly 600 participated in the July 2 strike against four Japanese cities.

Bombing of the Maruzen oil refinery, thirty-five miles southwest marked the second time within a week that it has been struck by Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay's Twentieth Airforce Superforts.

It was hit last Monday by fifty B-29s and photographs taken while fires still were raging showed one unit of the refinery seriously damaged and at least two storage tanks destroyed in that attack.

With today's raids, made shortly after Friday midnight (after 11 a. m. Friday, EWT), the Twenty-first bomber command had pushed its total of Japanese cities struck in forty-one incendiary missions over the home islands to thirty.

Shimotsu, where the Maruzen oil refinery is located, is one of the empire's most vital oil refining centers.

Shimizu, population 69,000, is the site of the largest alumina plant in Japan. The factory produces about half of the nation's total. This port and industrial center, sixty-six per cent destroyed in an incendiary attack May 2, is located on the north-west coast of Suruga Bay, twenty miles southwest of Mt. Fuji. Its built-up area covers four square miles.

The Japan Light Metals Company which processes bauxite ore for the alumina factory is located on the inner harbor side of the peninsula. Nearby installations include a boat-building and repair yard, a light metal plant, an oil refinery and an engineering company and iron works.

Major Japanese City

Kofu, seventy miles west of Tokyo, is one of the largest Japanese inland cities, population about 100,000. It is the home of important railroad shops, spinning mills, machine shops and military barracks.

Chiba, twenty miles around the bay shore from Tokyo has three important railroad lines, with warehouses and supply depots which are being almost entirely used for military shipments. The city has about 75,000 inhabitants.

Also in Chiba are infantry officers' training school and barracks, several railway units and their warehouses and the Chiba ordnance branch depot. The city's most important industry is the Hitachi Aircraft company plant, which was attacked May 2, by Superforts.

Stevens Says He Will "Stick By" Accused Wife

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 6 (AP)—Major G. Ralsey Stevens said he would "stick by" his Texas-born wife Imogene tonight as they were reunited in the Fairfield county jail where she is being held on a charge of manslaughter in the slaying of a young submarine sailor on June 23 at New Canaan.

Stevens, 32, and his wife, whom he said he hadn't seen in nineteen months in the jail office of High Sheriff Edward A. Platt. He kissed her repeatedly and held her in almost constant embrace as he said.

"I intend to stick by my wife."

"That was his only comment during a short interview in the sheriff's office. Mrs. Stevens was radiant in a glamorous black dress."

"It was twenty months ago today that we were married, wasn't it?" she asked her stalwart husband, a former star athlete at the University of New Hampshire.

"To all other questions," Stevens answered in a straightforward manner, "I have no statement on that."

Stevens arrived at an unnamed Virginia army post from his overseas base Thursday night. He had been requested to "come home at once" by his dark-haired wife shortly after the charges had been lodged against her.

Strange, how I'm made! Half mystic and half mutt! My eyes upon the stars, My feet deep in the mud; Wanting them both! Both stars and mud—Thinking they both are swell!

One moment lying, And the next I'd die for Truth! One moment kind, Big hearted, Understanding, loyal! The next as tricky As the devil And as cruel As hell!

Queer, how a soul can be split up Like that—Part God, Part scallywag. It's queer! It's inconvenient, too! Because you're never sure Which part is on the job!

Just when you think You're set to act The saint, Something inside Goes flop—And there you are, A slob!

Yet other times, When you don't care A hoot how you behave, when you've about decided To let go and be A common tramp, Why, something in you Leaps up like a flame, And all the muck In you is burned away. And, for a flash, You're tall and clean And strong.

It used To get me once—To be like that, I used to hate myself; Hate life—My pride was hurt, I felt I'd been Betrayed by God, Who'd made me Such a mess; What was life worth, If one were flawed Like that? So strong, yet weak? Philosopher, And fool?

So—Through my weakness I possess the key To every heart That's sad Or shamed, Or soiled; And through my blunders I've found tolerance And pity, In the place Of my lost pride.

So, God, I'm glad you made me As I am—Mystic and mutt; Philosopher and fool; my eyes Upon the stars My feet in mud, For I have learned Flawed lives can serve you well, And I have found Both stars and mud are swell!

CPL. BART LISANTI GETS SILVER STAR

The Silver Star, for gallantry in action, last Nov. 13, in the vicinity of Suisse, France, has been awarded to T-3 Bart J. Lisanti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lisanti, 126 West Third street. The award was for saving the lives of an ambulance load of wounded soldiers in battle with the Seventy-sixth Medical Battalion.

The citation, accompanying the decoration, relates that at the time he was working in support of a tank battalion. From the aid station, which was in an area under continuous direct shell fire, Cpl. Lisanti made numerous trips to save the wounded.

On one of the trips the corporal was bracketed by enemy fire. Immediately realizing the situation, he removed the casualties from the ambulance and placed them in the shelter of a ditch. Soon afterwards the fire shifted and scored numerous fragmentation hits on the ambulance.

Cpl. Lisanti's gallant action, the citation continued, undoubtedly saved the lives of the wounded men and reflects the finest traditions of

Local Sailor Is Now in Pacific

ABOARD A DESTROYER—MINESWEEPER IN THE PACIFIC—Frank L. Wilson, Jr., water tender, first class, 24 Blackiston avenue, Cumberland, Md., who took part in the invasions of Sicily, Normandy and Southern France, helped take this ship into the waters off Okinawa eight days before the invasion, to sweep a path for the rest of the fleet.

The Okinawa operation followed action in the Atlantic, in which this ship supported the landings at Sicily, Southern France and Normandy. When her mine-sweeping work at Okinawa had been completed, she went on patrol in April when attacked by five Jap suicide planes, coming in from all angles. All were shot down.

Before being converted to a mine-sweeper, this ship was part of the destroyer fleet which supported the European landings. At Sicily, she was straddled by shells from German shore guns and bombs from Nazi planes, but she succeeded in knocking out a number of enemy tanks and broke up a counterattack against American troops at Gela.

At Normandy she again was close to shore, within range of German guns, which splashed shells all around her, but never touched the ship. In this operation, her own five-inch guns smothered a road junction, enabling American troops to take an air field.

Later, she gave fire support to the landings in Southern France.

Mail Restrictions Outlined by Navy

NORFOLK, Va., July 6—Navy restrictions on the mailing of newspapers and magazines to personnel overseas have gone into effect, as of July 1, in that post offices will accept only publications that are requested in writing by the addressee.

The Navy Mail Service says this plan will release 1,500 men from the distribution and directory service of second class mail to process letter mail which has increased 108 per cent in the past year.

Latest comparative figures from the Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, reveal that total mail has risen from 49,719,867 pieces in May 1944, to 100,129,789 pieces in May 1945.

Meanwhile, the navy has adopted a bulk-shipment plan for magazines, buying them for re-sale at every shore station and ship. These shipments, due to start in mid-July, are expected to give navy men the same choice of magazines they would have at their home news stands.

Bronze Star Is Given to Lowery

The Bronze Star, for meritorious service with the Thirty-fifth Tank Battalion of the Fourth Armored Division in Europe, has been awarded to Cpl. Martin W. Lowery, son of Mrs. Martha Lowery, 105 Springdale street.

From Feb. 25 to April 23, of this year, Cpl. Lowery was credited with leading gas, ammunition and ration trucks through enemy infested territory. On many occasions he was confronted with direct small arms fire from enemy ambush pockets, located between the forward elements and servicing units. He was credited with conveying messages which could not be sent by radio because of security measures.

City Engineer Issues Two Occupancy Permits

Two occupancy permits were issued yesterday by the city engineer. Harold Clayton of the Clayton Motor Sales obtained a permit to occupy 22 Wineo street as a used car sales agency. The property, owned by Mrs. Charles H. Babb, Flintstone, is in the industrial zoning district.

A permit was received by Edward F. Mullan to occupy 141 Union street as a paint, janitor and dairy supplies store. Located in the industrial zoning district, this property formerly was occupied by a wholesale grocery.

Administration

Changes Continue

PRESIDENT TRUMAN continues with his plans to reorganize the administration he inherited with several more changes, the chief of which is that of getting a new secretary of the treasury. At the same time, the resignation was made known of the retirement of Justice Owen J. Roberts, of the supreme court.

As for Justice Roberts, there could, of course, be no implication that it stems from other than personal desire and his retirement decisions general regret in view of his excellent record on the court, which well merited the gratitude expressed by President Truman over the service rendered during a period in which he was called upon to pass upon some of the most important social and economic problems in our history. In that service he exhibited consistent sound judgment.

As for Secretary Morgenthau, however, it is apparent that his resignation was requested, the dispatches stating that it was not until after he had had a talk with the president at the White House that he wrote his letter of resignation. The president, in his usual tactful and friendly manner, expressed praise of the secretary's efforts in raising taxes and selling war bonds, in which he has made an excellent record. There has been a feeling, however, that his views on tax legislation and other national policies have not been quite in consonance with conditions and that, after the long tenure he has had, the time is fully ripe for a change in the post.

All in all, as these successive administrative changes come to hand, there is increasing evidence that, as David Lawrence says in his dispatch today, that the changes are healthy and give further evidence of a trend and a presidential desire toward departure from the more radical stantings of the New Deal as maintained by Truman's predecessor. Truman's proclivity of picking good men heretofore manifested gives promise that the right ones will be selected in succession to Justice Roberts and Secretary Morgenthau.

Allegany Gets Some

State Road Work

IT IS GOOD that at long last the state roads commission has let the contractors for much needed road work in this county.

There has been a feeling, as this newspaper has reported, that this section of the state has been unduly neglected in the matter of necessary road improvements, and that more than reasonable attention was given to the eastern sections of the state.

Circumstances have had much to do with that, however, it must be admitted. Expansion of war industries around the Baltimore area has made road improvements there require priority and there have been numerous handicaps in materials shortages and in manpower.

At any rate, people of this immediate section are glad that some improvements are to be made here and they naturally hold forth the hope that more of them can be made in the not distant future, as they are badly needed.

It is fortunate that a local concern is to do the work, as, for one thing, there will be less transportation requirements than would be the case with another concern having to move equipment and materials here from some other point. Doubtless this factor played a part in the ability of the local firm to submit the lowest bid.

Byrnes Records Shows

Middle-Road Attitude

SINCE James Francis Byrnes has become secretary of state, the most important office in the federal government after the presidency, his political and social views are of common interest.

A review of his public career by Editorial Research Reports discloses that he has never been noted as a political reformer and he appears by his votes in the Senate to have stood almost half-way between the conservative southern Democrats and the New Dealers.

As a senator, Byrnes firmly supported the Roosevelt foreign policy in 1935 he voted for adherence to the World Court. After the outbreak of war in Europe, he voted to end the mandatory arms embargo, to turn over surplus war supplies to the Allies; to seize merchant ships in American ports and to transfer Axis shipping to Great Britain; for Lend Lease; for the reciprocal tariff power without restrictions.

Although a veteran in the Senate, Mr. Byrnes was not a member of the Foreign Relations committee.

In practically all polls of the Senate in July, 1937, he had been listed as a supporter of the compromise bill, acceptable to the administration, on President Roosevelt's supreme court packing plan until the bill went into the discard with the death of Majority Leader Robinson.

It was Senator Byrnes rather than Senator Barkley, successor to Senator Robinson as majority leader, who handled many a ticklish administration measure behind the scenes.

Although from a state where prohibition sentiment was strong, Senator Byrnes in 1933 voted for repeal and to legalize beer.

In the early days of the New Deal, he voted for the central New Deal measures—the National Industrial Recovery Act (NIRA), the Agricultural Adjustment Act (AAA), TVA, the St. Lawrence treaty, stock exchange control.

But as the "honeymoon era" came to an end, Byrnes voted against the administration on a number of issues.

In 1935, Mr. Byrnes voted for the Wagner Labor Relations act, against the "death sentence" for public utility holding companies.

He was against the anti-lynching bill and voted against applying closure so as to end the filibuster against it.

In 1937 he voted against the Wage-Hour bill and the Wagner Housing bill, and in 1939 against expanding the public housing program.

In 1937 Senator Byrnes introduced a resolution condemning sit-down strikes. The Senate rejected the resolution by 36 to 48 but then voted 75 to 3 for a resolution condemning both sit-down strikes and unfair labor practices by employers.

In 1941 Byrnes voted for the Senate resolution, passed by almost a 2 to 1 vote, condemning strikes (and lockouts). However, in 1936 he sponsored the act forbidding the transportation of strike-breakers in interstate commerce.

It is apparent that the independence Byrnes has manifested on important public questions has been considerably responsible for the general approval of his appointment to the State portfolio.

One Man Who Should

Remain in the Army

FROM ATLANTA comes a dispatch relating the abnormal appetite of Pfc. Chester J. Salvatore, of Southbridge, Mass., and the fact that doctors don't know what's the matter with him.

Salvatore's appetite is gargantuan, such as would appeal even an elephant. A breakfast of forty eggs, twenty pieces of toast, several quarts of milk, a quart of coffee and a big bowl of cereal is nothing unusual for him. His favorite meal is pork chops and he says he has eaten as many as thirty-six at one meal. At one time he told friends he ate an entire eighteen-pound turkey without any help. And he is not a big fellow, being less than average in height and weighing only 140 pounds.

Pfc. Salvatore has been in the army four years and four months. While he may have earned the right to return to civilian life, the best advice in his case, considering the food situation, is to remain in the army for the duration, meanwhile letting the army doctors continue working on him.

Too Much Big Money

Is in Circulation

THE AMOUNT of money in circulation in $100 bills is twice as great as in $500 bills. Money outstanding in $100 bills is double that of $500 bills. The total of big bills—$50 and upwards—in circulation, $7,900,000,000, is nearly one-third of all money and more than the total money circulation at the start of the war. These facts are revealed by the Federal Reserve Board.

Financial authorities say the increase of more than 300 per cent in money in circulation during the war to date—current outstanding total is more than $26,000,000,000—is greater than warranted by the needs of business and they pay roll bills of $50 and higher are not common media of exchange.

The District of Columbia once had a mountain five miles high, according to scientists. The mountain was the national debt until the national debt really started to rise.

Some months have passed since a court ruled that a pedestrian has the right of way over a truck, but a southern judge has just decided that a man is head of the house.

Gratuitous Advice

Latin American countries are sovereign nations and not supposed to require advice on how to conduct their relations with European neutrals. However, on April 4, when a resolution to break relations with Spain was about to be presented in the Cuban Congress, the American embassy in Havana discreetly but victoriously protested. So, virtually taking orders from the U.S.A., Cuban Foreign Minister Cueva Rubio met in secret session with the committee on foreign affairs and urged that no action be taken toward a break with Spain. Temporarily, the resolution was held up; to be passed overwhelmingly about a month later.

Again, on April 26, the Venezuelan Chamber of Deputies was discreetly informed that it must withdraw its resolution calling for a break with Franco. A much more diplomatically worded resolution was substituted.

Also, the Costa Rican Congress voted 36 to 3 to break relations with Spain. But suddenly U.S. diplomats called upon the Costa Rican president and foreign minister.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Change of Friendly Policy toward Franco In State Department Is Facing Byrnes

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Wise-owl Sec. State Jimmy Byrnes has decided not to consider State department reorganization of personnel until he returns from the Big Three Conference.

Most other policy matters, unless of major importance, will also wait.

One policy matter which will come up for review soon—it may even be brought up by Stalin at Berlin—is our continued close relationship with Dictator Franco of Spain.

Byrnes' predecessors in the State department, led by Jimmy Dunn, have followed a policy of sending oil, sugar and other strategic materials to Franco. If we withheld these or withdrew our ambassador, Franco would fall overnight.

The extreme lengths to which Byrnes' predecessors in the State department have gone to protect Franco is known to very few. For instance, it has been kept a carefully hushed-up secret that, in advance of the San Francisco conference, State department officials brought pressure to bear on several keep them from breaking with Franco.

Delmarva Singled Out

The investigators especially concentrated on the Delmarva (Delaware-Maryland-Virginia) peninsula, one of the chief poultry growing areas of the U.S.A. Here the army has ordered poultry dealers to set aside a certain amount of chickens for military consumption.

But the War Food Administration office in Dover, Del., according to the report submitted to Anderson, follows the amazing procedure of permitting black market operators to release poultry. Following this, War Food turns around and calls upon other dealers in the same area to provide chickens for the army's needs.

The two Justice department investigators discovered a very interesting fact. When dealers telephoned Clifford Shedd, WFA representative in Dover, to get permission to release poultry for the civilian market, they were told: "Call Dover 3412."

It so happens that Dover 3412 is the telephone number of Norman Pratt. And, according to the investigators' report, Pratt is the leader of a group of poultrymen who ship to the black markets of Newark, New York and Philadelphia.

Normally New York hospitals consume 30,000 pounds of chicken a week. However, they have not been able to get more than 10,000 pounds a week for the past two months, even though they have the benefit of Government priorities. During the month of May, the Dover, Del. War Food office permitted 119 releases averaging 10,000 pounds each to New York—totaling about 119,000 pounds of chicken.

Strict Inspection Detoured

However, the significant fact is that only sixty-two of these shipments actually passed through New York's live poultry market. Most of them went through Newark, where the live poultry inspection is less strict. Apparently, the black market boys didn't want New York inspectors to discover where all the chickens were going.

Since then, WFA has announced that it has reduced the army "set aside" in the Delmarva area from 100 to seventy per cent. However, this will not mean much more poultry for hospitals, because War Food failed to issue a simultaneous directive to dealers that they must channel poultry to hospitals—which pay ceiling prices and no more.

Note—Clifford Shedd, WFA representative at Dover, Del., has been relieved by his chief in Washington, Gordon Sprague, of the sole responsibility of granting poultry releases.

Healthful Changes

Shunt New Deal, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Slowly but surely the reorganization of the administration goes on. Cabinet resignations, withdrawals of subordinate officials and a general shifting seems to be in progress. More than ever it may be said that April 12, when President Roosevelt died, was the end of one epoch and the beginning of another.

Of the original cabinet of 1933 only the secretary of the interior remains, and his tenure is said to be doubtful.

President Truman makes the changes tactfully and without hurting anyone's feelings. In every case he writes a warm letter of approval with the first name technique which was introduced so euphemistically by Mr. Roosevelt. Everybody's departure is pictured as a loss to the public service, yet the urge to go into private practice or business is recognized as inevitable.

There is something healthful about the transformation now going on. The idea that a cabinet position was a life job or that one party or administration would continue indefinitely in office appears to have been abandoned. It is the point where they forget to think of what the ground for their own withdrawal.

Something More Fundamental

There are, of course, many reasons for the changes in personnel. Every new president wants his own cabinet and his own entourage of loyal friends whose personal equation he knows. But there is something more fundamental in the changes which now are being made. It is that the New Deal as such cannot remain as an issue in the 1948 campaign without hurting Mr. Truman's chances of re-election. This country has long ago turned from radical reform to a desire to make the reform effective. The Truman administration can do a great deal for the cause of liberalism by consolidating the gains which liberalism has to its credit.

This will not be an easy task, for there are still elements of reform in the administration which will insist on favoritism and prejudice in government as well as special privileges. The labor politicians have taken a leaf out of the book of the reactionaries and now oppose any changes, for instance, in the Wagner Labor Relations act. This can only intensify the bitterness between labor and management and retard the disadvantage of the Truman administration. For in the end, industrial strife will compel the president to insist on an impartial law and if he does not handle labor relations on a basis of objectivity and fairness, the result can be political opposition from the big middle class in America. Misuse of power by labor unions was never intended to be licensed under the Wagner law and that is one of the defects of the present situation.

Firm Stand on Labor

Mr. Truman will find that in the period of reconversion and reconstruction he will have to take a firm stand on labor issues. Otherwise the 1948 congressional campaign may reveal an undercurrent of opposition that will be troublesome for the incumbent party in 1948.

Another factor that can cause difficulties for the Truman regime on the political side is a rumored tendency to introduce partisanship in matters of foreign policy. This sound opposition from the big middle class in America. Misuse of power by labor unions was never intended to be licensed under the Wagner law and that is one of the defects of the present situation.

That passage will bear careful reading and should be made familiar to the country. It means that in any labor controversy the new board can, in its discretion, forbid interruption of work. This compulsory arbitration would be used in cases where the board finds it necessary in the public interest to assure, for example, the continued delivery of milk, or the continuance of electric service, or any other vital service or commodity. Doubtless it could be used in such a case as the present

Public Health Interest

The basic assumption of the bill is that the public has an interest in labor disputes, that employers and unions shall not be left free to fight out their battles regardless of the results to the public, that the interest of the public in labor disputes is superior to the interest of either of the contestants.

This extremely important principle is embodied in a powerful "trust" which the bill contains. It sets up a "Federal Labor Relations Board" (taking the place of the existing National Labor Relations Board). Under the new board will be established a mediation, arbitration and conciliation service for all labor controversies over wages, hours and conditions of employment. This of itself is an important step. Beyond this, the bill goes into new ground. It asserts the supremacy of the public interest in labor disputes. This is set forth in a provision containing powerful teeth. This position authorizes the board:

Temporary Compulsion

"... In the protection of the public interest, to require the parties (employers and unions) to accept temporarily a compulsory settlement of their controversy, so as to avoid any interruption to the supply of a commodity or to a service on which the community affected is so dependent that severe hardship would be inflicted on a substantial number of persons by either a brief or prolonged deprivation of such commodity or service."

Public Health Interest

The basic assumption of the bill is that the public has an interest in labor disputes, that employers and unions shall not be left free to fight out their battles regardless of the results to the public, that the interest of the public in labor disputes is superior to the interest of either of the contestants.

This extremely important principle is embodied in a powerful "trust" which the bill contains. It sets up a "Federal Labor Relations Board" (taking the place of the existing National Labor Relations Board). Under the new board will be established a mediation, arbitration and conciliation service for all labor controversies over wages, hours and conditions of employment. This of itself is an important step. Beyond this, the bill goes into new ground. It asserts the supremacy of the public interest in labor disputes. This is set forth in a provision containing powerful teeth. This position authorizes the board:

Temporary Compulsion

"... In the protection of the public interest, to require the parties (employers and unions) to accept temporarily a compulsory settlement of their controversy, so as to avoid any interruption to the supply of a commodity or to a service on which the community affected is so dependent that severe hardship would be inflicted on a substantial number of persons by either a brief or prolonged deprivation of such commodity or service."

That passage will bear careful reading and should be made familiar to the country. It means that in any labor controversy the new board can, in its discretion, forbid interruption of work. This compulsory arbitration would be used in cases where the board finds it necessary in the public interest to assure, for example, the continued delivery of milk, or the continuance of electric service, or any other vital service or commodity. Doubtless it could be used in such a case as the present

Saturday shut-downs of the nation's principal securities markets begins tomorrow and will extend through July and August.

Dealings slowed after a fairly speedy opening. Prices began to lurch around midday. Although gains of fractions to a point or so were well spread over the ticker tape at the close, losers were plentiful. Transfers of 960,000 shares compared with 910,000 Thursday.

Favored were North American, Electric Power & Light, American Water Works, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Standard Oil (N.J.), Boeing, Caterpillar Tractor, Kennecott and Pan American Airways.

Swift International fell 3 1/2 points in the wake of a reduced dividend. On the outside were American Can, Dow Chemical, Philip Morris, Allied Chemical, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft and Pennsylvania.

Improved in the curb were Marium Steel, Burry Biscuit and American Cyanamid "B," lower were

SEMI-ANNUAL FIRE LOSS IS REPORTED AS "VERY LIGHT"

Except for the $10,000 blaze at the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company's office at 149 Baltimore street in February, loss due to fire in this city during the six months period ending June 30 was very light, Chief Reid C. Hoenicka, announced yesterday.

The local fire chief listed 178 calls made by the four Cumberland fire companies to extinguish twenty-three kinds of fires.

Sixty-nine of the calls were to residences, Chief Hoenicka said, adding that half of the calls were due to fire fires with slight or no damage.

Grass fires during the period resulted in thirty-three runs. In March, firemen said, nineteen fires were set on Shriver's hill by a group of youthful "fire bugs" who were later apprehended and paroled after hearings in juvenile court. Thirty-three false alarms were answered.

The $75,000 fire which destroyed the Western Maryland Railway coal tipples at Maryland junction, near Ridgeley, January 26, the largest fire in the area since January, was not included in the Cumberland report.

DeGaulle To Confer With Truman Soon

PARIS, July 6. (AP)—The French government announced today that Gen. Charles DeGaulle would go to Washington in August for conferences with President Truman.

Responsible quarters indicated problems affecting France both in Europe and overseas would be the subject of their talks.

DeGaulle's office said he had accepted a formal invitation from Truman.

(There was no immediate comment at the White House in Washington.)

Since the meeting will come after the Big Three conference in Potsdam, French government circles assumed that decisions taken there would form the basis for DeGaulle's discussions.

Revision of Tax

the tax liability of 1944 and subsequent years, reducing tax payments in 1945 on 1944 liabilities by about $830,000,000 and in 1946 with respect to 1945 liabilities by about $710,000,000.

Advance Maturity Date
3. Advance to January 1, 1946, the maturity date of outstanding excess-profits tax postwar refund bonds, hastening the availability of $1,300,000,000 that otherwise would be paid from two to four years after the end of the war.

4. Speed up refunds resulting from carry-backs of net operating losses and of unused excess-profits credits. Under present law these refunds, amounting to $1,000,000,000 would be paid over an indefinite period from 1947 to 1950.

5. Hasten refunds resulting from the recomputation of deductions for amortization of emergency facilities, affecting perhaps $1,700,000,000 otherwise to be refunded over an indefinite period.

Vinson Will Be

but who cannot be identified came this account:

Morgenthau took the position that he could only carry on his duties in an atmosphere of confidence and, in view of the recurring rumors, he went to President Truman yesterday and requested assurances as to his status.

Morgenthau was not satisfied. The fact that he resigned soon afterward was taken as evidence that he was not satisfied with the reply he got from the president.

President Truman still left the capital guessing today about his choice to fill another major governmental vacancy, created yesterday by the resignation of Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts.

The names of Senator Barkley of Kentucky, federal circuit judge Sam D. Branton of Albuquerque, N. M., and others bobbed up in the speculation.

Strike Closes Big Steel Mill
[By The Associated Press]
Strikes besieged the war-important steel industry yesterday (Friday), closing the world's second largest mill and threatening to cripple operations further in a Cleveland plant.

Ninety-six CIO United Steelworkers, operating narrow gauge railroads in the South Chicago works of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, failed to report for work. Their absence forced a shutdown of the big United States Steel Corporation's subsidiary plant, employing 13,000.

Union officials could not be reached for a statement but the company said the work-out apparently was due to previous layoffs of rail crews on a seniority basis because another strike had left the crews without work.

The Carnegie-Illinois dispute was a large contributor to the nation's total of more than 53,000, idle in labor troubles.

The South Chicago works is engaged exclusively in producing steel for military use. Ninety per cent of the army helmet steel originates there.

Speedy Ratification Of Peace Charter Urged by Leaders
WASHINGTON, July 6. (AP)—Calls for speedy ratification of the United Nations peace charter were voiced in the House today, and Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee reiterated he was hopeful of such action.

Connally told newsmen he hoped hearings would be completed by July 14 and he believed any proposed amendments could be beaten down on the floor without excessive delay.

The House pleas for speed came from Chairman Bloom (D-NY) of the foreign affairs committee and Rep. Eaton (R-NJ), the ranking minority party members, in reports on their role as delegates to the San Francisco conference at which the charter was drawn.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fisher Seeks Partial Divorce
Suit for a partial divorce was filed yesterday in circuit court by Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Fisher, 20 Orchard street, from Charles G. Fisher.

Mrs. Fisher charged her husband had disconnected a gas stove and threatened to disconnect the sink and sell it. She asked a court order to restrain Fisher from disposing of any of the household goods.

Chief Judge William A. Huster ordered Fisher to pay his wife $45 a month alimony pending a decision in the case and restrained him from removing any of the furniture. Mrs. Fisher is represented by Estel C. Kelley.

Chief Judge Huster yesterday signed a decree granting Henry Leroy Davis, 137 Wineo street, a divorce from Mrs. Ruth Davis, Buffalo, N. Y. He was also awarded the custody of their daughter, 13 years old, and ordered him to pay the costs of the proceedings. His attorney, William A. Gunter, said they were married August 21, 1931, and lived together until March, 1939, when his wife left.

GETS BIG SETTLEMENT

Angelo Metlica, Douglas Man, Commits Suicide

A verdict of death by suicide was issued yesterday after Angelo Metlica, 54, 78 Hillside terrace, Douglas, W. Va., was found dead in the bedroom of his home by his brother, Frank Metlica.

O. B. Collins, justice of the peace and acting coroner, who issued the verdict of suicide, said that Metlica used a 28 gauge shotgun which blew his face away. The gun was found under the body with the right hand resting on the barrel.

D. E. Cuppett, prosecuting attorney for Tucker county said no inquest is necessary.

Metlica was fully clothed. A newspaper and glasses were on the bed. Dr. H. S. Parker said death came instantly.

Officers found $1,710 in cash and a $500 war bond in a concrete block in the wall behind the radio in Metlica's home. Metlica, who was single, had not been working for a month, but no reason for his suicide could be determined by police.

Officials expressed the view that Metlica had attempted suicide with another gun—a 12 gauge pump gun being found in the room. A necktie looped around the trigger was torn and frayed as though it had been under pressure.

Sgt. J. T. Horne, of Thomas, West Virginia State policeman, assisted in the investigation.

BOSTON, July 6. (AP)—Apparent saving his greatest single-day hitting performance for a record-breaking feat, Tommy Holmes shattered the National League's record mark by hitting safely in his thirty-third and thirty-fourth consecutive games today as his Boston Braves swept a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates by top-heavy 13-5 and 14-8 margins. The major league's batting leader, who jumped six points to 406 during the double bill, wiped out Rogers Hornsby's thirty-third game mark. A left-handed batter, he doubled his first-time up in both games against Southpaw Pitchers Al Pezouser and Preacher Roe. Holmes went to bat ten times, hit in each contest, and totaled home run, four two-baggers and single.

Those mighty blows drove in a total of six runs, thereby enabling Tommy to take the lead for both games. Holmes also is pacing the majors in manufacturing hits, 122 runs, twenty-three and two-baggers, twenty-four. He and Teammate Chuck Workman are only one behind this year's top home slugger, the Giants' Ernie Lombardi, who has his fourteenth today to break his deadlock with the St. Louis Browns' Vern Stephens.

The Braves belted a Pittsburgh hitting trio for twelve hits in the opener, which they clinched for late Andrews by putting on a six-inning rally in the seventh inning. The three who had been yanked after the Taylor fielder, Pete Costello, who homered with three on and two out.

After going three for five in the opener, Holmes endured a nerve-rattling experience. The nightcap was delayed for sixty-four minutes by a heavy shower before the first pitch was thrown. But Tommy whaled his second pitch for two bases.

Don Hendrickson, the Braves' recent purchase from Milwaukee, made his first major league start in the second game and was hit for consecutive homers by the first two batters, Rogers Hornsby and Jimmie Foxx. The rain then came to the rookie's rescue and during the lull, he regained his stride when the Pirates blasted him for six hits and five runs. The scores:

REDS BREAK Jinx
NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Taking advantage of New York's inability to hit in the pinches, the Cincinnati Reds gained their first victory over the Giants, sweeping this season's second Howard Fox showdown Van Mungo, 3-2, today.

The Giants combed the rookie's untended offerings for nine hits and coaxed seven bases on balls, but hit into three double plays to spoil promising rallies and stranded twelve runners on the bases.

Ernie Lombardi hit his fourteenth homer of the year for the Giants in the eighth with nobody on base to regain the league lead from Boston's Tommy Holmes, but fled out in the ninth with the bases populated to win the game. The box:

Pen-Mar League Last-half Race Opens Tomorrow

Centerville, Opening Dash Winner, Plays Legion Here

The last-half championship race of the Pen-Mar Baseball League will be launched tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock with Centerville's Reds, opening dash winners, coming here to meet Cumberland American Legion at Community park, the Queen City Brewers invading the Mountain City to oppose Froburg American Legion and the Midland Indians entertaining the Lonaconing Republican Club at Memorial Park, Westport.

Centerville, boasting a string of ten consecutive triumphs, will be seeking its third straight win over Manager Frank Williams' Legionnaires, who have dropped three of their last four engagements. Seaman Mal Nee, who defeated the Legion by 8-2 and 9-1 scores during the first half of two of his six victories, or Glenn Evans, sporting three straight triumphs, will twirl for the Pennsylvanians. Claude "Lefty" Moore, with three wins and two losses, will probably work on the mound for the Legion, which broke even in its first-half tussles.

The Brewers and Froburg will be meeting for the third time in less than a week. On the Fourth of July, the two teams played a doubleheader here with the Brewmen taking the first 12-7 behind Howard "Bub" Bill and Froburg capturing the nightcap 12-6 as Johnny Keister made his 1945 mound debut.

Queen City has lost two of its last three while Froburg, showing much improvement, has won three of its last five. Bill, with three victories and one defeat; Bill Stenson (1-2), John Lowery (1-1) or Bernard Baker (1-0) will pitch for the Legion. Doyle's Jack Workman (1-3) will probably get Froburg's mound assignment.

The Indians surprised Lonaconing by winning 5-3 on the Fourth of July to earn an even break with "Lefty" Grove's boys during the first half. Coney took the first meeting, 19-11, Wednesday triumph ended a four-day midland losing string. Lonaconing has won two of its last three.

George Staup, with two wins and two defeats, may twirl for Coney. The Indians may start Pat Corrigan (1-2), "Pete" Dicklen, league secretary, last night announced that Lonaconing had signed Homer Jackson and "Bee" Nightingale.

Public Believes Merchant Marine Should Be Included In G. I. Bill

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 6 — The weight of opinion in the country today is overwhelmingly on the side of including the members of the United States Merchant Marine under the G. I. bill of rights — a proposal embodied in a bill which has the support of Admiral Emory S. Land, head of the Maritime Commission, and is now before Congress.

This would provide educational benefits, business loans, mustering out pay and other advantages to men in the merchant marine service just as it now does to the members of the army and navy. The dangers of the service are indicated by the fact that a total of 5,579 merchant marine crew men have been reported dead or missing to date in the war, and 1,554 merchant ships have been sunk.

The public has always had a rather hazy idea of the relation between the merchant marine and other branches of service in wartime. A survey by the Institute shows, for instance, that about one person in four believes that the merchant marine is actually a part of the armed forces today, and nearly one in five believes that the G. I. bill of rights already applies to men in the merchant service, whereas neither of these two things is the case.

When the opinion of "informed" voters is analyzed — that is, voters who know the status of the merchant marine in relation to the other forces and who know that the G. I. bill of rights does not apply to merchant seamen now — they are found in favor of extending the bill of rights to include those seamen. The vote is:

"Should the G. I. bill of rights be extended to include all men in the merchant marine?"

Yes 60%
No 33%
Undec. 7%

People supporting the proposal give many reasons, of which the following are typical: "Men who deliver the goods of war deserve just as much as men who have to fight." "The men on the high seas go through just as much danger as any man in the armed forces." "The merchant marine boys aren't going to have any easier time than the rest finding jobs after the war." "Battle casualties are very high in the merchant marine." "They've risked their lives for their country, and they're volunteers, too!"

On the other side, reasons given for opposing the idea of putting merchant seamen under the G. I. bill of rights include:

"They can join up and quit as they please. They're not entitled to special benefits because they're not called on to fight. They get big bonuses for everything they do!"

Ex-Servicemen May Replace Lost Lapel Buttons

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband has broken his lapel button showing service in the armed forces. Where can he get a new one?

Also, what type of vessel is the U.S.S. Chanticleer?

A.L.S.

Another lapel button for honorably discharged servicemen may be purchased at your nearest store which sells items of this nature, by presenting discharge papers.

There are two vessels called U.S.S. Chanticleer — one is an auxiliary submarine rescue vessel, and the other a district craft-patrol vessel.

Uniforms Protected

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Is the fabric in navy uniforms pre-treated against moths? I should like to know this before I put away my husband's uniforms for the winter.

Sleeveless Sweater

Show us the man who doesn't doze on sleeveless sweaters! This one is in a simple herringbone pattern stitch, done in knitting worsted. Just what he wants for year 'round wear. Pattern 799 has knitting directions for sweater in small, medium, and large size.

Sent fifteen cents in coins for this pattern to The Cumberland News 39, Needlecraft Department, P. O. Box 166, Station O, New York 11, N. Y. Print plainly name, pattern number, address, zone.

Fifteen cents more brings you our new 1945 needlecraft catalog... ninety-five illustrations of designs for embroidery, toys, knitting, crochet, quilts, handicraft... a free doll pattern printed right in catalog.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I sent my dues to the American Gold Star Mothers organization, the letter was returned marked "deceased." As I had sent the money to the treasurer, can you tell me the address of the national headquarters?

C.E.S.

The American Gold Star Mothers have headquarters at the New Colonial hotel, Washington, D. C. I suggest you write to them.

Big Three's Personnel

Dear Miss Fairfax:

How does the number of persons contributed to the armed forces by the United States compare with Russia and Great Britain?

D.H.G.

In the United States one out of every eleven persons is in the armed forces. Russia has about one out of every fifteen in uniform.

In England, where the male population between 14 and 64 is registered as available for war work, the percentage is 26.3. This figure includes miners, etc., and all males contributing to the war effort.

64 Generals Dead or Missing

Dear Miss Fairfax:

How many American generals have been killed in this war or are missing in action? And what about those wounded and held prisoners?

(MRS.) N.C.

The War department announced a few days ago that sixty-four American generals have been killed or are missing in this war. Thirteen of these were killed in action, two succumbed to injuries, five are missing, one died of exposure, one passed away while held in an enemy war camp, and nine were killed in airplane crashes. Fourteen generals have been wounded, and nineteen are held in prison camps.

If you're in the service — army, navy, marine corps or coast guard — and you have a problem regarding insurance, allowances, allotments, maternity and infant care for wives and children, or desire the answer to any other service question, write to Beatrice Fairfax, care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

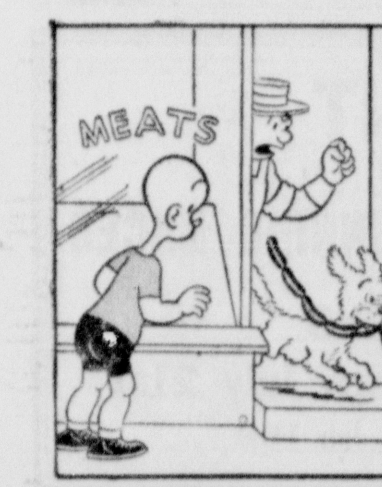

Beatrice Fairfax lives in Washington, and will be glad to get in touch with War and Navy departments, through press liaisons officers of these branches of the service, to give your problems correct answers. She will also answer questions in her column for those who do not ask for personal reply.

Sweepstakes War Loan Drawing Is Scheduled Tonight

Serviceman Will Pick Winning Bond Tickets from Barrel

War bonds, $2,500 worth of them, are going to be given away tonight when the drawing is held on Baltimore street at 9 o'clock to determine the winners of the Allegheny County War Bond Sweepstakes as the curtain comes down on the Seventh War Loan drive.

Although the time is rapidly drawing short, you still have a chance to take a chance on the war bond prizes and possibly win a $1,000 bond. Other prizes include a $250 bond, a $100 bond, a $50 bond and plenty of $25 bonds.

All you have to do to enter the sweepstakes is buy a Series E war bond before the issuing agencies close today. When you buy the bond, you will be given a chance on the prizes and the stub from your chance will be dropped into the barrel from which the winners will be drawn.

On Sale Today
Bonds for a chance in the sweepstakes may be purchased until 8:30 p. m. Saturday from five downtown Cumberland issuing agencies—Lazarus store, Strand theater, Montgomery Ward, McCrory's store and Rosenbaum's store.

At other issuing agencies in the county, except the post office at Frostburg, the deadline for buying bonds to get into the sweepstakes is noon today. At the Frostburg post office, however, chances will be given with bonds purchased up to 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Plans for drawing the winners' names from the barrel tonight have long since been completed, and Thomas F. Conlon is scheduled to preside as master of ceremonies. He will select a serviceman from the audience to pull the winning stub out of the barrel that will be located on the bed of a large truck.

The drawings will be broadcast over station WTBO from 9 to 9:30 p. m., and the winning tickets also will be posted on a bulletin board.

McMullen Predicts Success

Although the county's E bond quota is the largest since war loan drives were started, John J. McMullen, chairman of the Seventh War Loan campaign, said last night that sales now total more than a million dollars. He predicted that the county will reach the goal of $1,350,000.

Sales of E bonds by both the Cumberland and Frostburg Roundup committees still were increasing yesterday. Cumberland's committee reported sales totaling $106,750 while the Frostburg group reported sales of $68,100 up to 6 p. m. yesterday. Cumberland had a goal of $100,000 and Frostburg a quota of $75,000.

Local Man Helps Take Nazi Division

A Cumberland soldier, Pfc. Claude D. Brown, 23 Wempe drive, was one of four enlisted men who helped an officer of the Eighty-seventh "Golden Acon" division effect the surrender of a German infantry division near Plauen shortly before V-E day, according to an army public relations dispatch.

The officer, Lt. Martin M. Phillips, reported that he and the enlisted men were driving in front of the American outposts looking for a German convoy reported headed toward them for surrender. They met a German major who led them to the convoy.

"We followed him back to his headquarters," the officer related. "It was going in the wrong direction, so we turned the convoy around and headed it in the right direction. Later the German major told us the Four Hundred Fourth Infantry division, which was nearby, might be willing to surrender to us."

The major led the five Yanks to the headquarters of the enemy division, where they found the commanding general working with his staff, planning a line of defense against the Russians. The German general surrendered in writing, and Lt. Phillips gave him a receipt and arranged for him to meet a member of the general staff of the Eighty-seventh division that evening to make plans for the movement of his unit through the American lines.

"They were all very courteous—they had to be," Lt. Phillips said. "As we rode along behind the general's car from the rear, we saw German soldiers all along the line snap to attention and yell him with the old straight arm salute. It looked very strange to us."

Lifesaving Course Will Begin Monday For Y Counselors

The course will begin Monday and will be held daily from Friday from 6 to 7 p. m. under the direction of James E. Kelley, Jr., those who pass the course will receive YMCA emblems.

The annual camping season will open July 29 at the Pleasant Valley Recreation area in Garrett county.

Two Cumberland Youths Enter Novitiate Here

Six boys, two of them from Cumberland, entered their novitiate Thursday at St. Peter and Paul monastery after completing six years of study for priesthood in the Capuchin order at St. Fidelis preparatory seminary, Herman, Pa.

Those from Cumberland are James Stakem, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Stakem, 414 Fayette street; and David Lawler, son of Mrs. Lillian Lawler, 214 Fayette street.

The other four boys are Joseph Schaller and Leonard Ostrowski, both of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Joseph Heath, Rochester, Pa.; and John Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa.

After completing their novitiate of one year at the monastery, they will spend two years at St. Fidelis monastery, Victoria, Kans.

Stanley Morris Reported Killed In Plane Crash

Stanley Clay Morris, Jr., 22, aviation radioman third class, USNR, was killed in a plane crash in the South Pacific area July 3, according to war department telegram received yesterday morning by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Morris, 508 Eastern avenue.

Aviation Radioman Morris, who was home last March on a ten-day leave with his family, had been overseas one month when he met his death. He was stationed aboard a carrier with the famed Task Force 58 of the Pacific fleet. The telegram gave no details of the manner in which he was killed.

A native of Cumberland, he was graduated from Port Hill high school in 1940, and worked at the Community Super Market here until enlisting in the navy in September, 1942, at the local navy recruiting station.

After training at Jacksonville, Fla., and Wildwood, N. J., Aviation Radioman Morris was stationed at a naval base at Alameda, Calif., until going overseas to the South Pacific war theatre last May.

Besides his parents, he is survived by one sister, Miss Margaret Morris, at home.

WPB Investigates Lonaconing Plant At Union's Request

An inquiry into a curtailment in production at the General Textile Mill, Lonaconing, following a War Labor Board directive authorizing employees a ten cents an hour increase today was being investigated by WPB and the labor board at the request of the regional office of the Textile Workers Union of America.

James A. Dundon, TWUA regional director, said that in view of the fact that the labor board directive has not been complied with an investigation was asked to determine if the recent furloughing of over 100 employees is an attempt to evade the pay increase.

John P. Reinhardt, a representative of the General Textile Mill New York office, has contended that the OPA price ceiling prohibits the increase in wages granted by the labor board.

Charles W. Walters, superintendent of the textile mill, said that his understanding also was that the price ceiling prohibited the increase granted but added that statements regarding policy and wages emanated from the mill's New York offices.

Dundon also said last night that the TWUA representatives will take up negotiations next week with the State Tent and Canvas Company and that a settlement was expected soon.

Sale of Bicycle Tags Is Slow, Police Say

Although orders were issued Monday for local police to confiscate and hold for ten days bicycles being operated here with 1944 tags, Cumberland youths are still reluctant to purchase new licenses, police reported yesterday.

Only 655 tags had been issued yesterday at police headquarters. Proof of the noticeable lag is that 900 tags had been sold by July 8, 1944. The year's total was 1,446. No tags will be issued today, but issuance will continue next week, Monday through Friday, from 10 a. m. to noon.

Heskett Advises Planning Board Of Jurisdiction

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission under state law has complete jurisdiction for planning and for recommending zoning outside the city limits of Cumberland for a distance of one mile. Charles Z. Heskett, city solicitor, has informed members of that body.

Heskett wrote the commission to that effect after he had received a letter from Harold W. Smith, secretary of the commission, asking him to advise the board on its authority to regulate the development of the area of the county contiguous to the city limits.

The commission also asked Heskett to confer with Horace P. Whitworth, attorney for the county commissioners, to determine the attitude of the county commissioners toward co-operation with the planning commission in establishing a proper and orderly development of the area adjoining the city limits.

Engineers Services Needed

In view of the fact that the planning commission has jurisdiction for a distance of one mile outside the city limits, Heskett replied that there would seem to be no reason for referring the matter to Whitworth.

Heskett wrote the planning commission that the "sole difficulty I see in connection with exercising jurisdiction over the lands outside the city limits is the question of financing the services of an engineer to plan and zone the area."

He recalled, however, that under the provisions of the law, the commission can order Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, to undertake the job if it so desires, but he pointed out that this work requires a special knowledge of its subject matter.

In his opinion, he said, a special planning and zoning engineer should be employed. He added, however, that he is in no position to inform the commission if the mayor or city council would be willing or if the county commissioners would provide funds for this purpose, would be, he stated, either could do so if it were willing.

Hopes for Correction

Smith recalled in his letter that occasionally problems have arisen because of the manner in which the territory surrounding the city has been developed without any regard for proper tie-ups with the city streets and services.

He said the commission hopes that "some arrangements can be made to correct this condition before the construction of houses in the postwar period begins."

Grace Methodist Vacation School Will Open Monday

Grace Methodist Church, Virginia avenue at Second street, will hold its annual vacation church school beginning Monday morning. Sessions will be held each morning from 9:30 to 12.

The beginners will study, under Mrs. Walter Henry, "Happy Times in Our Church"; the primary group, under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Wolford, will study "Learning from Jesus"; the junior group, under the guidance of Mrs. Maurice Long, will study "Understanding God's Word."

Opportunity will be given the children for a great deal of handiwork and awards will be given for work well done. Refreshments will be served to all the children daily. John J. McMullen, chairman of the Seventh War Loan drive in Allegheny county, last night challenged the people of the county to match the Celanese showing in the current county campaign to sell $1,350,000 in Series E war bonds.

Edward T. Beall, chairman of the Celanese Seventh War Loan committee, reported yesterday that Celanese reached 102 per cent of its war bond goal of $375,000 with $382,500 in bonds already sold, and McMullen said he hopes the residents of the county will make as fine a showing and put the county over the top on its $1,350,000 quota.

The Seventh War Loan campaign ends today and drive from noon on Saturday, officials added.

A high quota was accepted willingly, he said, adding that he wished to offer his appreciation for the splendid sale of bonds at the plant.

The Celanese committee paced the county drive from the start of the Seventh War Loan and the county chairman said the excellent result is an example of what co-operation between labor and management can do.

Italian Tailor Says $1,400 Is Stolen from Chair

Police yesterday reported the theft of $1,400 from Luigi Santora, local Italian tailor, who had cached the money in the arm of a living room chair at his home, 213 Hay street.

Friends of the tailor, employed for about twenty-five years at Kaplan's men's store, said he saved the money over a period of ten years and finally decided to hide it in the furniture for safekeeping.

Santora, police said, cut open the arm of an overstuffed chair, deposited the money and then masterfully stitched the upholstery together again.

Chair Ripped Open
The theft apparently occurred between 7 a. m. and 5 p. m. Tuesday while Santora was at work. When he returned home he discovered the chair ripped open and the money gone.

Monday night, police said, Santora had removed a $10 bill from the roll of money so there can be no doubt that the theft occurred subsequent to that.

The roll was made up of six $100 bills, three $50 bills and the remainder in $10 and $20 bills.

Police said they understood Santora was saving the money to send to relatives in Italy, but friends said the tailor probably was saving it for his old age. They placed his age now at about 65.

Tailor for Fifty Years
Santora, who has been tailoring about fifty years, went to South America from Italy some forty-five years ago but came to the United States about five years later.

Announcement of the request for the contract review was made by William E. Meagher, president, following a meeting of the membership yesterday morning at Textile Hall. Meagher did not reveal the nature of the eight points to be reviewed.

The agreement with the company has been in effect since September 30, 1942, and has continued without modification with the exception of wages.

Meagher expressed the opinion that the present contract is a good agreement "with the exception of a few needed modifications and interpretations."
